ALLIED MEDIATION OVER SHANTUNG IS REFUSED BY JAPAN

Peking Hears Offers To Arbitrate Dispute Are All Rejected

STATES POSITION

Tokio Declares Question One Concerning Only Itself And China

TELLS INTENTION

Purpose Is To Continue Direct Negotiations Begun In Paris

(CHINA PRESS OWN SERVICE)

Peking, August 8.—It is announced here from an authoritative source that Japan rejected offers made by the Allied governments and set forth in seven proposals to mediate between Japan and China in order to reach a compromise on the Shantung question.

It is stated that in refusing the offer of the Allies Japan asserted that the Shantung question was one that concerned only herself and China and therefore mediation by any third party was not necessary.

Japan has let it be known that she will take up the Shantung question with China and continue negotiations already begun at Paris between the members of the two delegations.

CLOSE OF PARLIAMENT OPPOSED BY ANFU CLUB

Movements Set On Foot With View Of Extending Session For Three Months

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 5.—According to Chinese reports the Anfu Club is very much concerned at the prospect of Parliament closing before the appointment of the new Cabinet and the settlement of several important foreign affairs, and has proposed that the session should be extended for three months.

Finding that objections were raised on the ground of illegality a fresh proposal was made that a special session be instituted to deal with the ratification of the Austrian Treaty and any other important affairs that required the attention of Parliament. The general opinion, however, is that parliament will close after which the election of a Cabinet and the settlement of outstanding affairs will at once be expedited.

Many Arrests Made

Report To Commons

London, August 4.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Edward Shortt, Home Secretary, stated that the police situation has not materially altered, though the number of men who had refused to go on duty had increased slightly.

The figures were: In the Metropolitan area, 1,056 out of 19,000; in the City of London, 57 out of 1,170; Liverpool, 932 out of 2,100; Birmingham, 718 out of 1,256; Birkenhead 106; Bootle 63 and Wallasey one. No man of any other force had refused to go on duty. On the contrary, many forces had held meetings repudiating the strike. He emphasised that the strike is not an ordinary industrial dispute but a mutiny and the Government could not entertain any question of compromise, or the re-instatement of men who had been dismissed from the service.

MUST GO TO HONGKONG TO BOARD C.P.O.S. SHIPS

Passengers Going To Vancouver On Monteagle And Japan Are Discommoded

Because it is impossible to obtain bookings on steamers connecting with the Monteagle and Empress of Japan at Nagasaki, Vancouver passengers going from Shanghai on the two Canadian Pacific Ocean Services liners must go to Hongkong on the Empress of Japan next Tuesday. Over 50 passengers are effected.

The Monteagle was scheduled to leave here on August 20 and the Empress of Japan on August 23. The liners will omit Shanghai and proceed direct to Vladivostok where they are to receive troops to be transported to Vancouver.

Every effort has been made by the passenger department of the C. P. O. S. to secure passage on local steamers in order that Shanghai people might board the Monteagle and Empress at Nagasaki, but the five-day quarantine and the congestion prevented the arrangements.

RUSSIA NOT BLOCKADED, ASSERTED IN COMMONS

Demands Of Labor Concerning Operations Of Government Under Discussion

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 5.—In the House of Commons today during question time Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stated no blockade had been declared or was being exercised against Russia.

Lord Robert Cecil drew attention to the proposal of the Executive of the Triple Alliance to bring about a general strike by dislocation of mining, transport and railways unless the Government adopted certain policies regarding Russia, military service and conscientious objectors. He asked for an assurance that the Government would resist this revolutionary attempt to upset the constitutional authority.

Mr. Bonar Law said that any attempt to force a decision on political questions affecting the whole community by the methods suggested would, if successful, mean the end of democratic and constitutional government. "It is therefore unnecessary to say that it will be the duty of the Government to resist such attempts with all the resources at its disposal."

GERMANS ARE CONDEMNED AT LUCERNE CONFERENCE

Teutons Accused Of Weakening Socialist International By Belgian Leader

(Reuter's Service)

Lucerne, August 2.—At the Conference of the Labor and Socialist International there was much criticism concerning the alleged lack of vigor of the Acting Commission during the war.

There was a dramatic scene when Vandervelde, the Belgian Socialist leader, accused the German socialists of weakening the International because they destroyed its moral prestige. It was the first time the Belgian and German Socialists had been confronted in the International since the war. Vandervelde said that socialism was never so strong yet the International was never so weak because Belgium and France were still bleeding from their wounds. It was impossible to restore the International until the Germans admitted or the conference recorded its condemnation of their responsibility for the war.

The German delegate, Morekenbuhr, begged the conference not to pursue the discussion because the Socialists in the Reichstag are now demanding that everything shall be cleared up and all documents published, having no desire to shield the guilty.

Vandervelde reserved the right to raise the matter at the next conference because effective action by the International was impossible until the question had been settled.

The chairman, Mr. Arthur Henderson, suggested that the Germans prepare a party statement on their responsibility for submission to the next congress and thus obviate further discussion and promote unity.

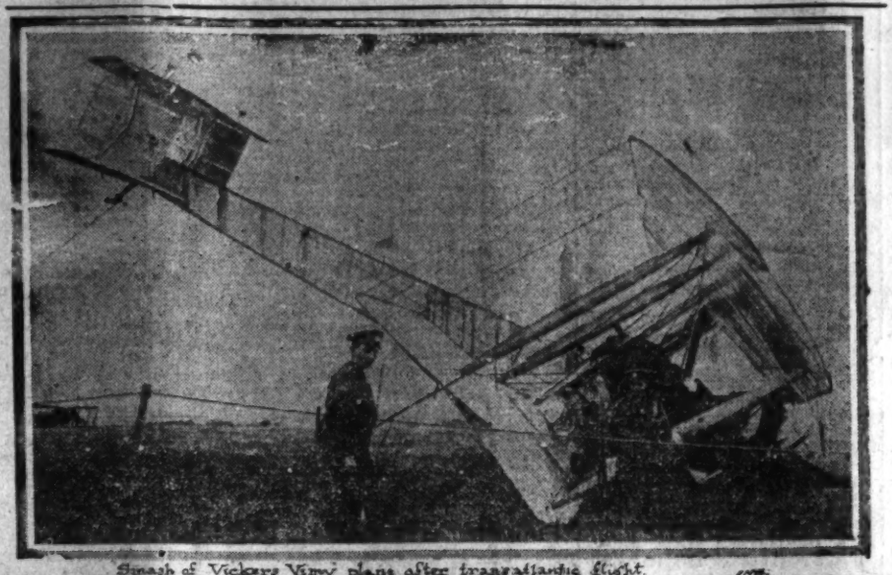
First Photograph Of Vickers-Vimy Plane In Ireland



Smash of Vickers Vimy plane after transatlantic flight.

First picture to reach here of the Vickers-Vimy plane landing in Ireland after completing the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic. It lit on its nose, turning tail to the sky, severely shaking up the two aviators, Brown and Alcock. But exultation at the successful climax of their daring achievement made them forget their cuts and bruises. The photo shows the plane in the bog at Clifton, County Galway, Ireland, under guard of British soldiers.

Find True Cholera Bacilli In Another Epiaemic Case

More Patients At St. Luke's But Figures As Whole Are More Encouraging

True Asiatic cholera bacilli have been found present in one case by tests conducted at St. Luke's Hospital laboratory and other cases suspected of being genuine cholera are being analysed. This, with the Health Department's record of one genuine case last week, goes to show that at least a small number of the victims in the present choleraic epidemic are suffering from the more serious disease.

There was a noticeable increase in the number of patients brought into the free ward at St. Luke's yesterday—17 beds in all being occupied late in the afternoon—but figures at the other hospitals would seem to indicate that this fact was due rather to wider knowledge of the new free ward's opening than to recrudescence in the epidemic's virulence. Only about a score of patients applied during the day at the Red Cross Summer Diseases Hospital on Tientsin Road—the establishment which has been receiving the great majority of cases throughout the epidemic. This hospital last night had only about 100 in-patients in all, much less than half the number cared for two weeks ago. The Taku Road branch had less than fifty cases yesterday.

The increase in applications yesterday at St. Luke's is believed to indicate a much heavier call upon that institution and the hospital officials are preparing to open another ward if the need arises. The present ward has been specially screened and arranged and fitted up in an admirable way for the handling and comfort of patients and the second ward will be a duplication of it. Thus far, since its opening last Tuesday, the free ward at St. Luke's has handled 25 cases, five of which have been sent home as sufficiently recovered and three of which have resulted in deaths. Forty Chinese Boy Scouts and students instructed and supplied with leaflets by the hospital authorities are at work in various parts of the city in an educational campaign supplementing that already undertaken by the Health Department.

Nantao Institute Students In Anti-Cholera Campaign

During the last fortnight students from the Nantao Christian Institute at Great East Gate in the South suburb of Shanghai have been active in fighting the choleraic epidemic. Every day bands go about the Chinese city and with implements and disinfectant aid the people in keeping the filth from the streets and taking other precautionary measures.

With the sanction of the police they have distributed literature and medicine and have given oral instruction. One new feature is the use of an electric lantern and home-made slides which are exhibited in the evenings at the open places and street corners. The city authorities have kindly allowed the public use of the electric current wherever there is room for the crowd to congregate to see the lantern slides.

The graphic representation of a fly the size of a dog, alighting first on a heap of garbage and then, on a large, juicy slice of watermelon that is in favor with the thirsty citizen, brings home to the most ordinary mind the connection between cause and effect.

The foregoing represents Young China. Old China is embodied in the long lines of priests carrying joss sticks and the processions dragging hideous idols which, to be sure, ought to kill every germ in sight judging from the ferocious expression of their faces.

Epidemic Is Spreading In Northern Provinces

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Peking, August 5.—The cholera epidemic has burst suddenly upon North China and is already counting off its toll by hundreds in Fengtien and Chihli provinces. About thirty cases are reported today in Tientsin, one being found in the French concession. No deaths are as yet counted in Tientsin. But in Langfang, on the Peking Tientsin line, a town made famous by the fighting of Chang Hsun's troops in 1917, ten deaths have occurred since the first appearance of the disease a few days ago.

A meeting of consular officers was held in Tientsin yesterday to discuss immediate measures for dealing with the epidemic and a message was sent urging the civil governor, Tsao Jui, to set up machinery for preventing the spread of the disease, especially along the Peking-Mukden and Tientsin-Pukow railway. At the meeting it was decided to take preventive measures immediately for the relief of Langfang, and accordingly a hospital train was despatched to that town yesterday, with supplies and a number of Chinese army doctors, who will attempt to localise the disease and check its ravages.

The plague has invaded Fengtien province and in the last few days has made great headway. Four hundred deaths are reported from this province up to today. Yesterday the government wired from Peking to Chang Tso-lin, Commissioner for the three border provinces, to organise relief machinery at once through a temporary Preventive Bureau, with branches in each district of his commission. Expenses of this bureau are to be paid through the Provincial Financial Bureau. As yet no cases among the foreign communities are reported from any of the stricken localities, and every effort is being made by the foreign communities in co-operation with government representatives to localise and control the plague.

RUMANIAN TROOPS OCCUPY BUDAPEST; BREAK AGREEMENT

Message From Capital Says 30,000 Soldiers Have Entered City

DISBAND RED ARMY

Suggestion Of Allies To Be Complied With By New Government

BELA KUN IS HELD

He And Associates To Be Confined In Austria For Present

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 5.—A message from Budapest states that 30,000 Rumanian troops entered Budapest yesterday evening, contrary to the agreement with General Bunou.

The Rumanian Supreme Command has undertaken to control the city.

First Enter Suburbs

Paris, August 4.—A message from Vienna states that Rumanian troops entered the suburbs of Budapest on the 3rd.

The new Hungarian government has been re-shuffled and three Bourgeois representatives admitted.

Minister Meets Troops

Copenhagen, August 4.—A message from Budapest states that Rumanian troops have arrived at the city boundary and were met by the Minister of War, Haubrich, and the burgomaster of Budapest. The Rumanian commander, General Rurescu, declared that he is only ordered to occupy the country as far as the city boundary but he had not been commanded to occupy the city.

Requested To Halt

Berlin, August 4.—General Rurescu decided that Budapest should be occupied for strategic reasons, according to the Zeitung-am-Mittag but was persuaded by the commander of the Italian military mission, Colonel Romanelli, to content himself with the accommodation of two regiments in the suburbs.

The Hungarian Minister of war has agreed that the Red army shall be immediately demobilised and disarmed, with the exception of four thousand in the city and twenty thousand in the rest of the country for the preservation of order.

The Entente is sending five thousand men to Budapest in compliance with the request of the Hungarian Government. The late Commissary for War, Pogany, and other Communists who arrived in Vienna yesterday will be sent to Wienerwald.

Demands Disarmament

Paris, August 4.—Le Petit Parisien states that the Supreme Council has sent a message to Lieut.-Colonel Romanelli, Chief of the Italian military mission at Budapest, that the new Hungarian government ought in the first place to disarm the Red army and then to hold general elections with the object of summoning a constituent assembly as soon as possible. The Rumanian army will halt in its present positions and only move back to the line of demarcation fixed on June 13 if Hungary observes the terms of the armistice.

Bela Kun Held In Austria

Vienna, August 3.—A communique states:

Bela Kun and his associates have been granted asylum in Austria in order to avoid disturbances and unnecessary bloodshed in Budapest. They will be allowed to stay in Austria in confinement until Hungary is able to receive them again, but they must not conduct political propaganda.

The communique is much criticised by the press. For example, the Neue Frei Presse points out that Bela Kun is responsible for many murders and expresses the opinion that his stay in Vienna may be dangerous to the city.

Three Executed At Tsinanfu For Activity In Boycott

Victims Not Accused Of Crime Tortured And Shot By Order Of Tuchun Acting As Dictator

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 7.—The Tsinanfu correspondent of the North China Star, in a message dated August 5, states:

Three business men who have been leaders of those promoting the Japanese boycott were executed this morning. Two were brothers, Dju Chuin-hsiang and Dju Siu-lin, while the third was a prominent Mohammedan doctor aged 68, who formerly professionally attended General Ma Liang, Commander of the 2nd Division of the War-Participation army stationed at Tsinanfu. Anti-Japanese activities were the only charge.

Though there was no accusation of crime these men were cruelly tortured, their bodies being burned with red-hot irons and their heads and chests slashed with swords in an attempt to make them confess to being traitors and robbers. When the tortures became unbearable the men were taken outside the city and shot.

Foreigners Are Warned

Intimations have been sent to foreigners that they should keep off the streets in case further disturbances arise and nobody has dared to predict what the next few days may bring forth.

General Ma Liang, owing to the increased authority afforded by martial law at Tsinanfu, has assumed the role of practical dictator and is gaining an unenviable reputation.

Two days ago 300 students, including 100 girls, were arrested and confined for several hours in the grounds of the First Normal School General Ma Liang addressed them personally, threatening them with severe punishment and even execution. He boasted of "his heavy sword of slaughter," saying he was not afraid of anybody, merchants, students, officials or "white devils."

Tuchun Ma Liang's Acts Are Those Of Dictator

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 5.—The proclamation of martial law is evidently interpreted by Tuchun Ma Liang of Tsinanfu as freedom to commit repressive and violent acts against popular demonstrators unfavorable to the party in power. Such at least is the interpretation by which he recently imprisoned and flogged student agitators in much the same unavailing highhanded manner as that adopted by the Peking administrators of martial law some months ago.

Feeling that the popular enthusiasm for the boycott was being undermined by pro-Japanese sympathisers, and that the military governor was misusing his powers and needed a reminder, a protest mass meeting was planned by students and merchants of Tsinanfu to be held on the morning of August 3 in front of the Tuchun's yamen. The agitators demanded first that no more grain should be allowed to be sold to the Japanese, as such action was precipitating a food famine in the province, and secondly that merchants arrested by the Tuchun for their boycott activities should be released. Extra troops called out to oppose the rumored mass meeting dispersed the crowd and took a few leaders prisoners.

Students Are Arrested

In the afternoon over three hundred students, including one hundred girl students, again gathered to protest. The reinforced troops, under order of the Tuchun, surrounded the demonstrators and drove a large crowd into the grounds of the First Normal School. Sixteen of the leaders were here arrested. Some twelve or fifteen teachers were arrested with the students, and they, with the younger boys and girls under sixteen years of age, were soon released. The sixteen leaders, however, were taken and flogged. The teachers and others who witnessed the scene reported that General Ma Liang made violent threats against the student prisoners and threatened with every appearance of sincerity to execute summarily the sixteen ringleaders as an example.

Warned by the released teachers a number of students succeeded in persuading foreigners to take the matter up with the Tuchun. He was warned that any summary action taken against the prisoners would be severely censured by the foreign community. The British and American Consuls also made arrangements to call upon General Ma at nine o'clock the same evening. At eight o'clock the sixteen prisoners at the Normal School were informed that they were free to depart, and when the foreign consuls arrived at the yamen they were assured that all prisoners had been freed.

Students Plan Action

The students of Tsinanfu, nothing daunted by the violent acts of the Tuchun, are preparing for a definite program of agitation against the present administrative system in control of the province. They demand that Ma Liang shall be dismissed, that the former Civil Governor shall be returned to his post, and that the decree of martial law shall be annulled. According to the report of a special correspondent at Tsinanfu there have been no disturbances of the popular patriotic agitators which would make necessary the state of martial law proclaimed in the province on the recommendation of the Tuchun on July 31. At Tsinan, as at all places there they have demonstrated against Japanese propaganda, the students have been orderly and never beyond control of the regular police forces. The proclamation appears to have been brought to pass by pro-Japanese citizens, with whom the province abounds, especially in military and official circles, and who wish to take threatening measures under official sanction to break the boycott of Japanese products. The merchants' and students' association, however, has made it a point of honor to stand firm in their anti-Japanism, and violent acts against them can only embitter the agitators.

SEA FIGHTERS HONORED IN PAGEANT ON THAMES

Fifth Anniversary Of Britain's Declaration Of War Is Celebrated In London

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 4.—The splendid part played by the navy and mercantile marine in the war was fittingly recognised today, the fifth anniversary of Great Britain's declaration of war, by a great pageant of the sea services on the Thames.

Over one hundred and fifty craft participated in a procession from London Bridge to Chelsea, including a Royal barge with their Majesties on board and an Admiralty barge and also vessels representing the navy, mercantile marine, Ministry of Shipping, Customs, Lloyds, the National Lifeboat Institution, the wireless telegraphists, the Sea Scouts, fishermen, the Mission to Seamen, the river police, the Port of London Authority and the Thames Conservancy.

The King in Admiral's uniform, accompanied by the Queen, left Buckingham Palace at 2.30 and drove via the Mall, the Strand and Cannon Street to the Customs House jetty, where he embarked on the Royal barge, which headed the procession.

Both banks of the river were lined by huge cheering crowds while the bridges under which the procession passed were filled with enthusiastic spectators and the river outside the course of the procession was alive with craft. The weather was fine but cloudy.

On their arrival at Cadogan Pier, Chelsea, Their Majesties disembarked to the accompaniment of a salute of twenty-one guns, fired by naval picket boats, and took their places in a grand stand on the embankment, from which the King took the salute of the boats in the procession as they went upstream.

Afterwards the Lord Mayor led the procession back to London Bridge.

ATROCITIES ATKHARKOFF CHARGED TO BOLSHEVIKI

Evidence Of Reign Of Terror Found When Denikin Occupied City

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 5.—Reuter's correspondent at Rostoff-on-the-Don, in a message dated July 31, says the horrors perpetrated at Kharkoff by the Chresvychaika, or Bolshevist Extraordinary Commission, are irrefutable. After the occupation of the city by General Denikin's troops hundreds of victims of Bolshevist cruelty were disinterred in the presence of medical authorities, representatives of the Trades Unions and responsible foreigners and photographs taken.

Some of the devices for torturing victims show fiendish ingenuity: one was called glove-making, in which the skin of the hands, with the nails, had been stripped from living victims. Several parts of these gloves were found and photographed.

Every conceivable form of mutilation was perpetrated in the Chresvychaika slaughter-house. Hands, feet and breasts were cut off, jaws smashed, eyes gouged out and victims disembowelled or tortured with boiling water. Many were thrown alive into wells and mineshafts. Others were heaped in huge holes in the ground. In underground galleries several layers of corpses were discovered.

The Commissaries made merry every night while Bolshevist Chinese and other ghouls were revelling in a more ghastly manner.

Arrests were made on farcical charges. Some persons were arrested and shot for being in possession of verses satirising Bolshevism. Among the favorite questions of the inquisitors was "Have you ever abused Trotsky as a Jew?"

The work of repression and the atrocities were redoubled after the visits of Trotsky to Kharkoff.

The inhabitants deliriously welcomed the Cossacks. Practically all the workmen are now bitter anti-Bolshevists, likewise the peasants in the surrounding country. The workmen latterly have been openly deriding the Bolshevist posters for circulating ridiculous lies.

BRITISH FORCES GIVEN THANKS IN PARLIAMENT

Resolution Is Introduced By Prime Minister Covering All Fighting Divisions

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 5.—The Prime Minister on Wednesday moves resolutions of thanks:

To the officers, petty-officers and men of the Navy and Royal Marines for their sleepless watch over the seas and the courage, resource and devotion with which, during four years of constant peril, they maintained the blockade of the enemy's coast, convoyed armies from the most distant lands and defended the commerce of the civilised world against the craft and subtlety of a ruthless foe.

To the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the armies in the field for the matchless valor and endurance with which, amid circumstances of unexampled hardship, they sustained the shock of war in many climes: for the good humor, clemency and patience of their bearing: for the undaunted spirit which carried them through four years of strenuous toil to complete and splendid victory.

To the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Air Force for their brilliant daring and conspicuous services overseas and on land.

To the gallant troops from the Dominions overseas, from India, and from the Crown Colonies for the promptitude with which they responded to the call for justice and freedom and for the noble part they played in connection with their comrades in the British Islands in securing the triumph of right over wrong.

To the women of the medical and other auxiliary services for their devotion in tending the sick and wounded and for other duties faithfully and bravely discharged.

To the Officers and men of the Mercantile Marine for the fine and fearless seamanship whereby our people were preserved from want and our cause from disaster.

"That this House doth acknowledge with deep submission and reverence the heroism of whose who have fallen in the service of their country and tenders its sympathy to their relatives in the hour of their sorrow and their pride."

Mr. Lloyd George also moves a resolution recording a profound sense of admiration and gratitude for the supreme service rendered to the British Nation by Field Marshal Foch as Generalissimo of the Allied Armies.

Identical resolutions will be proposed by Lord Curzon in the House of Lords.

Proposals for money grants to the victorious leaders will be brought up by Mr. Lloyd George today in the form of a message from the King.

SEATTLE CLUB TO TRAIN CHINESE STUDENTS IN U.S.

Organisation Will Co-operate With Seattle Firms To Give Men Vocational Education

The China Club of Seattle, co-operating with the University of Washington and certain commercial and manufacturing firms in Seattle has completed the plans for arranging scholarships for Chinese students who desire to secure collegiate and vocational training for service in the extension of American commerce in China.

Details of the arrangements were brought to Shanghai by Mr. Wesley C. Wickersham, Manager for China of Rogers Brown and Company of Seattle, which has local officers at 7 Soochow Road. This firm has agreed to pay the expenses of two Chinese students to be selected later.

Courses will be arranged at the University of Washington so as to allow students to use half their time in vocational training with Seattle firms. The firms will receive one or more students for training and will provide G.$600 a year for each student in addition to paying the student's tuition at the University of Washington.

In a circular issued by the China Club and brought from Seattle by Mr. Wickersham, the following information is printed for the benefit of students desiring to apply for scholarships:

A list of co-operating firms and their requirements as to lines of business and other matters will be made and the names assigned to Tsinghua College, Peking; Canton Christian College, Canton; St. John's College, Shanghai, and Ya-li College, Changsha. The colleges are authorised to nominate candidates for the scholarships assigned to them, to be selected by competitive examinations, open to all applicants on equal terms. The examination is to be in Chinese and English. Applicants around twenty-five years of age are preferred to younger men. Examinations passed must be such as will admit to the University of Washington. Mental, moral and physical fitness shall be ascertained by satisfactory examination, and shall be vouched for by responsible Chinese citizens. Candidates shall secure the approval of the Seattle firms to which they are to be accredited through some person representing such firm in China. All credentials shall be submitted to Mr. Julean Arnold, United States Commercial Attache at Peking, for confirmation.

Students To Sign Contracts

In the course of instruction by the various firms, the student shall agree to render his firm such practical and industrial service as the firm may require and shall agree to continue in the service of the firm, if desired, for a period of two years following graduation and during such period shall receive reasonable compensation. In view of the benefits accruing from these scholarships the students agree to provide from their own funds or from other sources whatever amounts may be needed additional to the scholarship.

The agreement between the student and firm shall be for the period of the student's course of study, which shall ordinarily be two years, unless otherwise arranged.

The purpose of the China Club in connection with these scholarships is to select the best qualified Chinese students through competitive examinations and to assist in effecting a practical working arrangement between students and firms. The China Club will use its best efforts in promotion of the interests of both students and firms. It is not expected that any serious difficulty will arise but in case unsatisfactory conditions develop, the Club will use its best efforts to effect satisfactory adjustment. It is understood and agreed that the Club will endeavor to secure reduced rates of transportation for students, but the China Club assumes no financial responsibility in behalf of students in this or any other connection.

For students enjoying a full income from the Indemnity Fund or other sources there may be secured opportunity for vocational training without their being required to use the full half of their time with firms. In such cases the stipend provided by the scholarship may not be drawn or may be drawn in part, as may be agreed between student and firm.

Chinese Students Are Entertained By University Club

Two Hundred, Who Are To Leave Next Week For America, Given Farewell Reception

Two hundred Chinese students, who are to leave shortly for the United States, where they will continue their studies, were entertained yesterday afternoon at the Columbia Country Club by the American University Club. Admiral Tsai Tin-kan, Mr. Y. S. Tsao, who has been appointed First Secretary to the Chinese Legation at Copenhagen, and Mr. George Fitch, who represented the American University Club, delivered addresses of farewell to the students.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Admiral Wu Yang-ko, Mr. Tang Shao-yi, Mr. Y. S. Tong, who has charge of sending the students to America, Mr. Thomas Sammons, American Consul-General, and Messrs. C. J. Spiker and R. B. Sawyer, American vice consuls, attended. Professor Li of Nanyang College gave a short exhibition of legerdemain, tea was served and there was music by Messrs. Harry Kerry and A. B. Cody of the Cafe Parisien orchestra.

Admiral Tsai urged the students to learn the public spirit, enthusiasm and energy of the American people, to study the American educational system, to learn, see and absorb the practical things, to broaden themselves by contact with Western methods and ideas and finally to return to China to aid in combining the results of their training in the United States with Chinese institutions.

Admiral Tsai paid a tribute to the students for their effort in the anti-Japanese boycott and their ability to convince the Peking Government that pro-Japanese officials were neither popular nor desirable.

"The students of China are admired throughout the world for the stand they made against pro-Japanese officials," Admiral Tsai asserted.

Mr. Y. S. Tsao Speaks

Mr. Y. S. Tsao rehearsed his experiences as a student in the United States, told of his early and final impressions and the stages through which a foreign student in an American university must pass. He said they would admire, become disappointed, enthuse, and finally gain a thorough understanding of American ideas, ideals and principles. Mr. Tsao asked the students to come in contact with men, to attempt to emulate great Americans and to think along the lines of American thinkers and leaders.

Mr. George Fitch introduced the other speakers and added a word. He cautioned the students to be mixers and be constantly in touch with the American students in the universities where they are to study.

Another Reception Today

The World's Chinese Students' Federation, Kiangsu Educational Association, Chinese Vocational Educational Association, Shanghai Students' Union, National Students' Union, Western Returned Students' Union, Shanghai Educational Bureau, and Shanghai Commercial Federation will jointly give a reception to the Tsing Hua students and other private support students who are going to the United States, as well as to the Szechuen students going to study in France, at Nanyang College, Zikawei, this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Long Tack Sam

Here is a show to wax more than mildly conversational about. It is decidedly good, the performance that Long Tack Sam and his fellow entertainers are putting on out at the Olympic, perhaps the best stuff of its sort to be seen on the stage today, and it is a very good sort of stuff and a good deal of a relief after the hackneyed vaudeville menu that is the theatergoer's usual fare.

Magic, juggiery, gymnastics—all of the numbers are of the kind calculated to cause the onlooker amusement. And the calculation works out about correct, as last night's audience testified. Long Tack Sam is himself probably one of the most versatile and hard working artists heading an entertainment troupe. Usually the chief luminary in such a party appears at infrequent and carefully prepared moments throughout the show and favors the audience with one or two carefully selected stunts of more or less similitude. Not so with Long. He breaks early into the program with some improvements on the more intricate feats of Chinese magic; a little later he does some adroit juggling, then he indulges in acrobatics. Sometimes he combines all three.

The rest of the turns are uniformly pleasing. A youth named Siy Cong Soy accomplished several marvels in the balancing line and there is some "jazz" juggling by Yu Ka Zuan. Long, by the way, appears to have recognised the value of syncopated entertaining. This same Yu not only juggles but eats fire to ragtime. Long Tack Sam works some of his mystification in the same meter, Lee Chain operates the diabolo in harmony with "Oh, How I Hate to Get up in the Morning" and little Miss "Baby" Mina Long is syncopation itself in her dancing acts. "Baby" Mina is a delight. She won her house ten seconds after the start of her first stunt, a Highland fling, and clinched matters later with a combination toe-dance and light opera affair which might have given points in piquancy and grace to many a so-called premier danseuse of musical comedy.

The diabolo manipulator deserves a further word. He did a lot of amazing things with the spool and string. And the pair of horizontal bar artists who wound up the performance deserved and received a hearty endorsement by the crowd.

Long Tack Sam opened to a fairly well filled house, which should be bigger tonight and tomorrow night, the remaining two performances.

NOTICE

Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL much regret that for the first time for a hundred years war conditions prevent many of their products being shipped to China. They much appreciate the letters they are receiving, and in reply would state that it is fully recognised here that under the circumstances of life in China the absence of English delicacies and foods is a very real hardship.

Messrs. CROSSE & BLACKWELL will take care that not a day shall be lost in forwarding supplies when a return to more normal conditions permits. In the meantime they trust that those who have been accustomed to rely on their products will be good enough to accept this explanation.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

Shanghai Municipal Council

7% Debentures Issued at 95%

Redeemable at Par on December 31, 1929

Points Worth Considering!

1. Including the premium on repayment, the return on these debentures, if held to maturity, works out at 7¾ per cent. per annum.
2. Tls. 1,000 at Ex. 5/- = £250 which at (say) 5 per cent. will earn an annual interest of £12 10s. 0d.

   Tls. 950 invested in Municipal Debentures will earn an annual interest of Tls. 70, which, if remitted Home at Ex. 5/-, will produce £17 10s. 0d.
3. The higher exchange rises the greater will be the Sterling equivalent of interest paid in silver.
4. The lower exchange falls the greater will be the capital appreciation of silver debentures.
5. There are two sides to every question. Weigh these points carefully, and remember that the capital expenditure now being undertaken by the Municipality is for the benefit of the Ratepayers of Shanghai.

Application Forms and further Particulars can be obtained from the Finance Department,

Banking Service with AMERICA —direct and personal

EXPORTERS or importers now engaged in, or thinking of, trade with America would do well to consider not only the special nature of our facilities, but also the personal interest we take in every one of our customers' transactions.

First of all, we offer direct banking service—without intermediary dealings, or unnecessary delays.

Equally important is our personal service. Every transaction is followed through, both here and in America, by our own representatives with a personal interest, the value of which is evident in the service rendered.

May we talk with you about America?

SAYS GERMANS CONCEAL 500,000 TONS OF SHIPS

Vessels Are Registered Under Flags Of Neutrals, According To Writer

STILL POWER ON THE SEA

In Five Years Will Be Only Slightly Behind United States And England

New York, June 29.—Germany, instead of being eliminated as a factor in world shipping, still controls upward of 500,000 tons of merchant ships registered under the flags of neutral nations, according to an article by Henry C. Wiltbank in the July issue of "The Rudder."

With this secret flotilla as a basis, the article says, Germany, within five years, in all probability, will have re-established herself as a maritime power, with a merchant fleet surpassed only by those of the United States and Great Britain.

"It is becoming more evident every day," writes Mr. Wiltbank, "that the scope of the world's commercial anger against Germany is limited to the Allies. Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland declined to meet the wishes of the Allies by agreeing to participate in a blockade against Germany in case she had refused to sign the peace treaty.

"They have nothing to gain by the seizure of Germany's shipping and much to lose by the breaking off of commercial relations. German capital is invested in their industries, and they have taken over no German property or interests during the war. It is to them that Germany looks confidently to furnish the foundations for the resumption of her world trade.

Secret German Trade Fleet.

"Some idea of how Germany has operated to secure control of industries in other countries has been given by the revelations following the seizures of enemy holdings in the United States. In Europe the German methods of commercial penetration have been the same and there is every reason to believe that the shipping and shipbuilding enterprises of many neutral countries are honeycombed with German capital, officered by German subjects or their dummy representatives and directed in the interests of German commerce. It is this organised effort that has brought into being a secret German trade fleet, operated under foreign flags, and has thereby injected into the shipping situation a factor against which the Allies may find it hard to contend.

"That Germany during the war worked with a eye to her after-war trade is shown by the way in which she sought to extend her sphere of shipping influence by negotiating for the control of shipyards in neutral countries. Some instances of this were cited recently by the British publication 'The Syren and Shipping,' which stated:

"'Negotiations have been taking place for the acquisition of a Dutch yard by the Hamburg owner Wilhelm Hemsoth. We have already reported the movement to found a new yard at Roneby, in Sweden, backed by German money and under German technical direction. In the Baltic provinces of Russia and in Finland similar efforts are being made.

Advantages Of Situation

"With German interests in control of professedly neutral enterprises German trade would be greatly strengthened. Not only could tonnage be secured after the war, but by building and registering ships in neutral countries Germany could obtain access to enemy countries.

"An even greater advantage would be that with German interests in control of neutral shipping companies the routes of the vessels could be altered so as to take in German ports and regular services could be instituted limited to the carrying of German cargo on outward voyages. Furthermore, the transfer of the ships to the German flag or their sale to open German interests could be effected whenever the time was decided to be opportune.

"Another weapon which Germany has sought to employ in her campaign of preparation for after-war shipping conditions is the nominal transfer to neutral interests of ships built during the period of hostilities. While it was announced in the shipping terms recently laid down to Germany that such sales would not be recognised, no intimation has been given of the attitude of the neutral countries concerned in regard to the matter.

Should Calculate Accordingly

"What steps will be taken to prevent the maritime renaissance of Germany? Seamen of Allied countries have declared a boycott against all Teuton vessels, but it remains to be seen how far this will be carried into effect and how effective it will be. The peace terms, drastic as they are, mortgage the future of the Teuton mercantile marine, but do not eliminate its power of development.

"In fact, it may be questioned whether it is to the interests of Europe to keep Germany out of overseas trade. With only European markets in which to sell its goods, Teutonic industry would resort to a trade war so intensified as to precipitate general commercial disaster on the Continent. While Germany cannot be restrained utterly, however, she can and must be kept within the bounds of commercial decency. That she is definitely eliminated as a maritime power is the argument of folly. She may not be a force for years to come, but the years will not be many and world commerce should make its calculations accordingly."

Cotton Market

Messrs. J. Spunt and Co. write as follows in their report for week ending August 9:

China Cotton.—During the early part of the week under review a certain firmness in the rates for spots became apparent, due, no doubt, to a little demand transpiring from Japanese spinners and no sooner such subsided than a more quiet feeling ensued, culminating at the close in a somewhat drooping tendency. Such a situation can be ascribed to no other influence than the absence of trade demand in general and the reflection of the declines now being registered in Mid-Americans, Indians and Sampin.

Weather conditions along the Yangtsze Valley have been somewhat cold and the soil continues to be overburdened with excess of moisture, factors in no way tending to encourage expectations of retrieving the crops in the inundated districts unless a dry and hot spell sets in and continues to about the end of the season, in which event there is a probability of recovery of some if not all of the damaged area.

Reports from the North as well as from Shensi province are not very cheerful, the complaints being likewise due to excessive moisture and lack of the very much needed hot and dry weather.

In the face of the facts before us, it is difficult to forecast any definite trend of the future course of the market, and the situation, therefore, will be governed by developments from day to day. Tone of the market, quiet.

In their report dated August 8, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton:—The market has had rather a more active appearance during the past week, and although there has been a moderate revival of outside interest, the operations of local professionals have been chiefly in evidence. Fluctuations were irregular, but the undertone on the whole has been quite steady, whilst September position business has been done at one tael premium.

The new crop has undoubtedly had a setback owing to the unfavorable weather during the past week. The typhoon chiefly played havoc on the low lands of Tungchow and Tsung Ming Island. Floods are also reported on the northern section of the former, whilst conditions in the latter section are far more discouraging. Chekiang Province, however, suffered the most, the full force of the typhoon having centered itself in this section of the Cotton Belt, and as the flowering was in full bloom the damage done was considerable. The low temperatures prevailing during the past week in this Province and heavy showers during the early part of the week have undoubtedly retarded the progress of the crop. What is required from now to picking time is good, seasonable weather; and although the time is limited nevertheless there is still a possibility to make up a portion of the deterioration that has taken place.

As to the near future, the course of the market will be so dependent on weather conditions, especially during the critical months of August and September, that it would be useless to express any decided opinion. Basing our views on the continuance of average growing weather during the next couple of months, however, we consider that although general conditions do not warrant the expectation of extreme advances, nevertheless we hardly think that prices will show any decline of consequence.

Exhibit A. When the Anti-Japanese boycott went into effect in Shanghai the association of dealers in matches sent out notices to shops to stop the sale of Japanese matches. The next day they raised the price of Chinese matches almost a third.

Exhibit B. When it was definitely settled that the prohibition law was to go into effect in the United States, the price of ice cream sodas and similar soft drinks was almost doubled.

Perfectly legal, of course, quite common and altogether typical of business practice and revelatory of its ethics the world over, and also perfectly immoral, perfectly ruthless and by any absolute test perfectly anti-social and inhuman. And the sort of thing that spurs the effort of every man of social vision to the ideal of changing the whole economic system at its very roots: that the law of that system may be no longer the law of the tooth and the claw and the exploitation of the helpless by virtue of might, and that the economic relation of man to man be raised in morals above the level of the jungle and in manner above the level of the swill trough.

Call that Bolshevism if you will. If it is, then Jesus Christ was a Bolshevik; and God, as revealed in the Testaments.

On Liquor

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir:—It is with a real interest that I daily read your esteemed paper, even the advertisements. Therefore I cannot but record some impressions which have forced themselves upon my mind regarding the advertisements of a certain company dealing in alcohoholic beverages.

Public interest is a splendid thing, when it is divorced from selfish avarice. I enjoy hearing the Bible quoted and such noble patriots as Abraham Lincoln referred to but not in the cause of an outlawed industry. I have a strong suspicion, however, that about all of the Bible and all of Abraham Lincoln's addresses that your advertiser in question knows is what has been carefully sifted to bolster up a weak conscience and a questionable business.

It is useless to try to convince where conviction of truth is not sought for. The courts of the United States, the sober judgment of doctors, the decisive actions taken by agencies responsible for public service as well as the precautionary measures against alcohol and the habitual drinker have all borne their testimony. This is overlooked, however, by certain individuals who would make a dollar out of the disreputable business.

When the liquor dealer can show that he is championing individual liberty without making money out of the kind of liberty he is particularly interested in then he can stand on the same platform with the "reformer", who so seems to be on his nerves, and expect to have some one believe in him.

Once upon a time there was a public spirited farmer in a certain county in northern New York State. He believed in personal liberty and approved in the government bounty of a dollar on every skunk he could destroy. The authorities, suspicious over the large number of skunk tails brought in by this exemplary citizen, investigated and found that he was keeping a skunk FARM!

Moral:—Don't keep a skunk farm, even to make money. The skunk is a skunk wherever you find him and a poor refuge in the day of constitutional amendments.

I am Sir,
Yours agreeably,
E. W. Perry.

Rome And Athens On Church Unity

In place of a reunion of the Christian Churches, Pope Benedict prefers "the unity of the Church," and this, in his opinion, "can only occur by all returning to the Catholic Church." The reunion that has been dreamed by the Episcopal General Convention, and favored by dignitaries of the Greek Church, will lack the adhesion of the Church of Rome. Recent despatches give details of the visit of Bishops Charles P. Anderson, of Chicago; Boyd Vincent, of Southern Ohio; and Reginald Heber Weller, of Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, with several other clergymen of the Episcopal Church to the Vatican, where they were informed by Cardinal Gasparri of the Pope's attitude before they were admitted to his presence. The pontiff is reported to have told the visiting clergymen that it was not possible for the Catholic Church to take part in the proposed World Conference on the Faith and Order of the Church, but as the "successor of St. Peter" he declared that "the Vicar of Christ has no greater desire than that there should be but one fold and one shepherd." The despatch published in the daily press gave this further account of the visit:

"The Pope added that the teaching and practise of the Catholic Church 'regarding unity of the visible Church are well known to every one, and therefore it would not be possible for the Catholic Church to participate in the proposed conference.'

"The Pope explained that he in nowise wished to disapprove of the participation in the conference of those who are not united to the chair of St. Peter, but, on the contrary, he earnestly desires and prays that 'those who take part in the conference may, by the grace of God, see the light and reunite with the visible head of the Church, by whom they will be received with open arms.'"

After the visit to the Vatican the deputation issued this note:

"The deputation regrets that the Roman Catholic Church will not be represented in the world conference, as substantially all the rest of Christendom has promised to co-operate. The preparations for the conference will proceed and the deputation will continue its work, until invitations are presented to those communions which have not yet been reached."

Disappointment is naturally felt at this refusal because it was hoped "all Christian communions throughout the world which confess our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Savior" would unite in arranging for and conducting the conference. No comment of the Catholic press has yet come to our notice, but The Churchman (Episcopal, New York) expresses its feeling in this way:

"The Roman Church is such a communion. It has been asked to take part in the conference. It has refused to do so. But it desires that those who may take part in the conference may see the light and return to the open arms of the mother Church. For these kind wishes, many thanks!

"Undoubtedly, in the years that are to come we shall journey to Rome again, and even again, and we shall be told, as often as we journey thither, what we long ago knew, that there is only one way by which Rome can approach the question of unity—the submission of alien communions. It is well for Christendom that Rome is obdurate and is not wise enough to make concessions. Were she more flexible, more statesmanlike, some fine day she might by a winsome show of yielding entice Anglicanism back into her motherly arms. That would be a tragic event for Christendom.

"No peace with Rome until Rome is no longer Rome! The Churchman has no tears or regrets over the Vatican's polite 'No.' It is, indeed, hard for us to write upon this matter except with our tongue in our cheek."

Beyond the statement made by the Pope, "no one in this generation," observes The Christian Century (Boston), "will be able to go." It recalls that "though the Roman Catholic Church has less than half of the Christians in the world in her fellowship, she claims to be the Church and all outside her fold to be schismatics and of doubtful salvation." To this "liberal" Christian paper the outlook appears in this light:

"The refusal of the Pope to participate in the world conference will be a hard blow to those High-Church leaders who for nearly a century have been trying to lead the Episcopal Church back into the Roman fellowship. They now must see that there is no way back except the road that Cardinal Newman took, that of submission instead of compromise. The effect of Rome's refusal is bound to quicken greatly another tendency in the Episcopal Church, that in the direction of union with Protestants. In England it has been decided that confirmation will no longer be required for communion, in case the Methodists form a union with the Episcopalians. Against such an attitude such ecclesiastics as the Bishop of Oxford (who recently resigned) fought bitterly. With Rome impossible, and with strong reforming and democratising tendencies appearing in the Greek communion, it appears that the Church of the future, when it appears will be evangelical and democratic and free. Such a Church will at last bring about a reformation within the Church of Rome or else accomplish its diminution to the place of a struggling sect."

When the ecclesiastical deputation presented its message at the Metropolitan Palace in Athens its reception, according to a special despatch to The National Herald reprinted in The Living Church (Milwaukee), was thus acted on:

"The Metropolitan Meletios declared that the Greek Orthodox Church had no objection to receiving the proposal of the friendly Church of the Episcopalians. If, he said, this proposal had been submitted to us four years ago, we would have replied that we were occupied in the accomplishment of another national duty, namely, that of the sacrifice of the shepherds for their flocks. But, after the emancipation of its unredeemed children, the Orthodox Church will continue its ancient task, following the lines drawn by the seven Ecumenical Councils and without departing from the least of them. On this basis we accept the invitation to participate in the conference."

As to the possibility of a union of all the Churches, the opinion of the acting Patriarch of the Ecumenical Patriarchate, Dorotheos, is hopeful:

"Not only do I consider such a union possible, but I also think that it is befitting for the Orthodox Church to labor in behalf of this union, by calling a Pan-Ecumenical Synod which, by mutual understanding, will accomplish the word of the Gospel, 'one flock under one shepherd.' After the League of Nations is established we must labor for the accomplishment of the League of the Churches, which will be an indispensable supplement of the former. I am especially grateful for the attitude of the Anglican Episcopal Church, as well as of the American Churches, of whose sympathy we have so many palpable proofs."

Another issue of The National Herald presents the purposes of the proposed conference as stated in the letter inviting the participation of the Patriarchate:

"The Archbishop of Chicago had sent beforehand a written invitation to the Patriarchate, containing the statement that the decisions of the conference will not be binding and explaining that the conference will be occupied only with the examination of different questions contributing to the achievement of the union of the different churches. The letter urged strongly that the separated churches will not be able to encounter efficiently the organised forces of antichristianity. In order that the desired result may be accomplished, says the American invitation, the co-operation of the Orthodox Mother Church is essential, which gave for Christianity thousands of martyrs for so many ages."

Ferocity Of American Baseball Astounds The French

The French are amazed at American baseball, and they have certainly seen a lot of it since the advent of the doughboys in their country. Among other things, the Frenchmen can't understand the deadly seriousness with which the Americans play a mere game, or the ferocity with which they take sides. Also they consider our national game a dangerous pastime, involving much peril to life and limb, and the fearless manner in which the brave Americans stand up to it awakens their unbounded admiration. "One of your baseball games is exactly like a battle," said a Frenchman to William G. Shepherd, who tells the story in the New York Evening Post. "Your men never smile while they are playing it and the onlookers shout and roar like Roman mobs." Mr. Shepherd relates that when a doughboy was hit by an automobile in the street, a Frenchman, pushing his way through the crowd, looked with pity on the unconscious, bleeding victim, and then turned to the nearest doughboy and inquired, "Baseball?" Another man, a major, ran a splinter under his fingernail and when he paid his weekly visit to his manicurist, the latter, observing the injured member bound up in a compress, asked sympathetically, "Baseball?" Mr. Shepherd goes on:

"Just out of sheer curiosity as I have moved about France I have looked into the question of whether the French are likely to adopt baseball as a popular game. I have expert evidence from both the American and the French sides and, after adding to this the results of my observations, I feel safe in saying that if baseball ever does gain a foothold in France, its popularity will not be apparent in this generation.

"There is no doubt that the Frenchman has what we call "an eye." With his quick nervousness he is able to make his muscles respond instantaneously to his brain. This is one of the first requisites of baseball. As batters and base-runners it is conceivable that the Frenchmen might shine at baseball.

"But between the neck and the waist the average Frenchman is not a baseball-player and never will be, unless a special baseball brand of Frenchman is developed. Frenchmen run to legs, strange as it may seem. In the hundreds of rings in which Frenchmen have appeared with American boxers in France it is noted that the Frenchman below the waist is usually the superior in muscle and in speed. Fighter for fighter, the Frenchman is almost invariably quicker and shiftier on his feet than the American. Above the waist the American is always stronger and better-shouldered. This tendency of the Frenchman to rely on his legs instead of bringing into play his shoulders and his arms is shown in the old game of boxing with the feet and in his supremacy at football.

"A French boy kicks as naturally as a fish swims. During a baseball game near Bar-le-Duc not long ago, nine baseballs were picked up by little French boys who were hanging about the outskirts of the crowd awaiting such opportunities.

"As baseballs are scarce in France—only 750,000 having been sent over—the military police were asked to seize all baseballs found in the hands of the French urchins. The next day fifteen baseballs were turned in by the police.

"Every military policeman reported that he had found the French boys kicking the baseballs around like footballs!

"In the parks of France little boys and girls rarely throw their toy balls into the air. They kick them instead. The idea of using their hands in throwing or catching does not seem to occur to them. Throwing, it would seem, is distinctly an American achievement."

A sporting expert tried to introduce baseball among the French soldiers. It was not a success. They did both their throwing and their catching "girl fashion," which not only is considered by experts a very poor fashion indeed, but also results in numerous broken fingers and other injuries not conducive to create any particular enthusiasm for the game. Says Mr. Shepherd:

"The brave poilus, with stiff and outstretched fingers, would extend their hands to the hottest liners without a qualm. It was like presenting a handful of clothes-pins to the kick of a mule. They seemed unable to learn how to present the side of their hands to the oncoming ball in American fashion. In the phraseology of the American boy, they caught the ball "girl fashion." They all gleaned from their experience that baseball was one of the roughest and mutilatingest games they had ever seen, and they gained a tremendous respect for the Americans who played it without breaking their hands.

"When a big, soft indoor baseball was substituted for the hard baseball the Frenchmen took a new interest in the game, and they shortly became decidedly proficient.

"The Frenchmen who have tried baseball find themselves absolutely unable to throw with the snap of the arm which characterises American 'throwing with the broken arm,' thus referring to the bend of the elbow which gives the American throw its snap. Again, the American boy would fall back on the term 'girl fashion' in trying to describe the Frenchman's throwing. There is more of a trick in this snap of the elbow than the average American, who learned baseball as a child, fully realises, and many of our doughboys in France basked with delight in the admiration of the French onlookers for this art of throwing which they had acquired so unwittingly as kids.

It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks, and the chances are that a Frenchman of twenty years or over would never learn how to throw. Baseball is a combination of running and exact throwing. There must be a certain proportion of running speed to throwing speed in order to make the game interesting. With fast French running and slow French throwing, not to mention excessive batting due to the good French "eye" and slow pitching, it has been absolutely impossible for the Americans to show to the young men of France the beauties and the niceties of baseball as we know it."

What Of Switzerland?

(New York Tribune)

Will Switzerland join the league of nations? The answer is not written. In May the Swiss government announced that the peace conference had consented to recognise the political and military neutrality of Switzerland. The Swiss press interpreted this to imply the surrender of economic neutrality. Switzerland would have to join in the economic actions of the league against recalcitrant states, even though exempt from military co-operation.

Although the fact is nowhere expressly stated, it is plain enough that both French-Swiss and German-Swiss newspapers base their considerations on the assumption that a joint economic action of the league of nations would probably be called against Germany in the first place.

The demand of the Allies that Switzerland participate in the economic blockade planned for coercing Germany into accepting the peace treaty aroused the misgivings of the entire Swiss press, French and German. The Neue Zurcher Zeitung characterises the demand as follows: "It means the antedated employment of a provision of the league covenant which has not yet gone into effect. To comply with it would mean surrendering our policy of neutrality maintained throughout the world struggle."

The sentiments of the French-speaking portion of the Swiss people are disclosed by a quotation from Le Genevois, a Geneva newspaper: "The most fervent believers in the advent of the society of nations cannot ignore this evidence pointing to the fact that the Paris covenant does not establish a real league, not even an embryonic organisation from which it may ultimately develop. It is not a league of nations at all; it is a league of some nations, or fundamentally, an alliance pure and simple."

Consideration of the basic question "to join or not to join" is resumed by the Neue Zurcher Zeitung in a series of four editorials. The history of Swiss neutrality is analysed, its advantages for the country's development are told, and it is emphasised that this neutrality was not enforced, passive, as in the case of Belgium, but self-willed and active, the outcome of Swiss historic tradition. Under modern conditions, however, the paper continues, there enters into the strict adherence to neutrality an unethical trait, a shade of egotism. "All over the world reason has understood and appreciated Switzerland's neutrality in the world war; but heart and conscience could not but realise the unethical character of this neutrality in face of the disaster that befell Belgium."

The issue confronting the Swiss people, therefore, is that of harmonising their own ingrained interest, which is continued neutrality, with the demand of the growing international conscience to share the responsibilities and burdens of the rest of the world.

Good And Evil Of Window-Glass

Window-Glass is a recent invention, a mere matter of yesterday as we count the life of the race, and it has its bad as well as good points. In fact, there is no doubt that it is affecting our health and our industrial and social conditions very powerfully. So at least says Dr. R. E. Danforth of Rutger's College, in an article on "Window-Glass as a Factor in Human Evolution," contributed to The Scientific Monthly. Dr. Danforth points out that this action, whatever may be, is recent. Glass is ancient, but not window-glass; and the general use of glass sheets in the windows of ordinary dwellings is a thing of comparatively recent times—probably a couple of centuries. We must realise the benefits and injuries of glazed windows if we are to retain the good while mitigating the evil, as this writer advises us. His article is directed to this end. He says in substance:

"That window-glass is a factor of prime importance in the evolution of man has not been sufficiently elucidated. Not that glass has had much to do with shaping his body and brain of today—it has not had time to do that—but that the thoughts filling his mind, that the greater part of his activities, and that the bodies and brains of generations to come are and will be greatly influenced by window-glass; and that in it are serious dangers as well as boons. The thought is astonishing, yet simple of proof, and clear as the light which comes through the windows in question.

"Before window-glass became a common possession of the people there came into homes and shops the air and the temperature of outdoors through the openings which admitted the light of day. The air was beneficial, but the temperature it brought with it not always so. When the out-door temperature was not too low and the out-door air not in too great activity, life and industries within could go merrily and well, but let either the air or its temperature be unfavorable, and at once discomfort and a necessary cessation of certain activities ensued.

"Think of the demoralising effect of such uncertainty upon industry. Modern inventions could not have come in such marvelous profusion before the day of this one invention of a simple device admitting daylight and excluding to a great extent the outer temperature.

"Even today if window-glass should become one of the 'lost arts,' a large number of other inventions would at once cease to be useful or be forgotten through neglect, even despite the fact that artificial illumination has made remarkable strides.

"But some one may object: was not glass manufactured and distributed by the ancient Phoenicians? Yes, and probably before these by the Egyptians. How then can we attribute our very recent and radical changes to window-glass? It is indeed surprising to think how new is the general use of glass in windows when the substance had been known so long and used for vases and gems and now and then, in some sort of window. The common people, however, had no such luxury in their homes and shops. Recent terrific explosions in New Jersey, breaking windows in many hundreds of homes and other buildings, brought home to some for a few days our real dependence upon window-glass today.

Window-glass in Roman times was cast, Dr. Danforth tells. The art of casting glass seems to have been forgotten until 1688. Yet window-glass was even then the prize of kings and nobility, and these had only a scant supply. In the time of Elizabeth glass windows were so rare and costly that some noble when he left his city residence had the glass windows carefully removed. In the time of Charles II., glass was not used in all of the rooms of the king's palace. He goes on:

"It seems safe to assume that while many individuals may have had scant supplies of window-glass by the middle of the seventeenth century or earlier, the commodity could hardly have been common before the eighteenth century, hence its effect upon human customs, industries and mode of life could not have begun to operate appreciably before that time. The great change in home life and the change in industrial life and in the industries themselves could not begin until an abundance of cheap glass filled all homes with a flood of daylight, and all shops and offices and factories as well, keeping in the artificial heat at the same time. From that time the outdoor life rapidly lost its people while the world of indoors gained devotees, willing or unwilling, by thousands of thousands. A host of new industries sprang into being in the wake of window-glass, and these begat other industries, scientific inventions and discoveries with magic rapidity. Large factories were made possible, big business began and the physical conditions of home life were completely changed. The air which all breathed, in home and shop and office, became at once far less pure, its oxygen was consumed and it became flecked with fine dust, and the pristine rigors of a temperate climate, with all that they had meant for the vigor of the northern peoples, were commuted to conditions of tropical evenness of temperature with what debilitation such brings and without the constant renewal of air which might be had in the tropics. Although this change came but yesterday, already a marked increase in physical debility in our most 'civilised' populations is a matter of common comment and concern.

"With window-glass the habits of life and livelihood are completely changed, habit of thought are revolutionised and the field and scope of thought changed. The whole environment is changed for the species, including temperature, humidity, material environment, composition of air breathed, visual and mental horizons, and a change in the relative adjustments of human beings to disease germs. Such radical changes both within and without the human organism are bound to produce physiological changes in the individuals. They also set in motion new factors in the evolution of the race.

"With window-glass man leaves his outdoor or semi-outdoor activity and becomes a modern industrial worker or office-server. With a sturdy foundation of outdoor health behind him he may not notice ill effects of degenerating muscles or dust-clogged respiratory tracts, and he may pass on to his offspring for two or three generations a vigorous heredity. The heritage of the ages is not lost over night, yet already we note inroads into the health and vigor of the people. Industries indeed evolved prodigiously, but 'advance in civilisation' is not necessarily human evolution.

"How then is window-glass a prime factor in human evolution? First, it changes man's environment and changes his field of thought. Secondly, it alters the temperature and humidity of his environment. Thirdly, it gives him air of a different quality and composition to breathe. Fourthly, it compels him to inhale fine dust constantly. Fifthly, it removes outdoor activity from all women and most men in 'up-to-date' communities. Sixthly, the germ content of the air in confined buildings is greater than normal, especially so in times when colds and other infectious diseases abound. The more frequent illnesses result in impaired health and reduced vigor. The inferior air also reduces vitality. The inhaled dust clogs minute bronchioles and alveoli of the lungs, causing thousands of cells to toil constantly to ingest foreign and insoluble particles. The muscular degeneration consequent to the changed manner of life will make its permanent change in the race of tomorrow; so will the reduced vitality resulting from the causes just mentioned. Great care should be given to the subject of window-glass, that we may see to it that we reap the blessings it brings with it and avoid the bane."

Anecdotes Of The Famous

Cleomenes, when asked what was the duty of a king, replied: "To do good to your friends, but harm to your enemies." Hearing this, the philosopher Aristo asked, "Would it not be still better to make your enemies friends, and so to do good to them also?"

Philip of Macedon, being advised by his friends to banish one of his slanderers, replied, "If I do he will go about and abuse me where there are more to listen to him."

Dionysus the Tyrant, to put a slight upon Plato, gave him the lowest seat at his table.

"I dare say," he said, "when Plato goes back to Athens he will have plenty to say against us."

"Sir, said Plato, "I hope I may never be so at a loss for subjects of conversation as to have to talk about you!"

Aristippus was once asked why he borrowed money of his friends.

"Not for my own benefit," he replied, "but to teach them the proper use of wealth."

Anaximander was once laughed at by some little boys for his singing. When told of it he said: "We must sing better on account of these small boys."

An ambassador, having gone to Sparta from Perinthus, spoke at great length.

"What answer shall I return to the Perinthians?" he asked in conclusion.

"Say," replied the king, "that you talked a great deal and that I did not utter a word."

Diogenes was asked at what time of life one had best marry.

"If you are young," he replied, "not yet; if you are old, never!"

No Palm Beach In France

Sea bathing is very popular in France, and at the hour of high tide the beaches are crowded. It is true that the French four hundred are not represented there; for in their world it is not considered the thing to bathe in public. They take their dip on private property, their own or their friends, in front of some little break in the chalky cliffs with which the coast of Normandy is guarded. In France, there is no summer equivalent of Palm Beach, where the omnipresent photographer may snap bathing costumes worn by women of social prominence on two continents; there is not even the modified seclusion of a Bailey's Beach, for bathing is a strictly private affair.

But the crowd on the plage is very entertaining for all that; with its groups of amusing bathing suits, ample capes and peignoirs of quaint forms and color schemes. These latter are worn to the water's edge by those who really intend to indulge in swimming. There they are given into the hands of a maid or of an attendant cavalier, while madame, in her little maillot, takes a quick plunge for the distant raft. Whether she wears a conventional suit with a short skirt, or the scanty costume of a real swimmer, she appears without stockings. On a French plage stockings are not considered proper. Some women a few years ago caused a sensation by the simple means of wearing them with their bathing suits. This difference in proprieties is based on psychological divergencies far too deep for such a letter as this; it is opposed to the Gallic mode of thought; the one gets around the facts of life by trying to conceal them, while the other makes them so obvious that they become commonplace and cease to excite curiosity.

LORD SUMNER TO HEAD COURT TO TRY KAISER

Briton To Preside Over The Tribunal Of Five Which Will Try Ex-Ruler

HEWART CHIEF PROSECUTOR

Chief Justice White Suggested As The American Judge—Dutch Attitude Is In Doubt

London, July 4.—John Andrew Hamilton, Lord Summer, will preside over the five judges representing the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan at the trial of the former German Emperor, according to The Evening News.

Sir Gordon Hewart, Solicitor General of Great Britain, will lead for the prosecution.

William Hohenzollern, it is said, will be defended by German counsel, assisted by British lawyers if he wishes them.

The decision to bring the former Emperor to London, with other prominent accused persons, has been a well-kept secret, and it is understood that Premier Lloyd George was responsible for the proposal. Holland however, has yet to be reckoned with, it is reported. Dutch public opinion has seemed strongly to support the ex-Kaiser's right of asylum there, and there are many predictions that Holland may refuse to give up the deposed monarch and that the Powers will not coerce her.

Commission To Fix Procedure

Great state trials in England, of which there have been none in many years, have been held in Westminster Hall, but it is not believed that William Hohenzollern will receive that honor. The procedure for his trial will be laid down by a commission which will be appointed by a committee that the Allies will soon set up to execute the provisions of the Peace Treaty.

Of the five judges who will be chosen by the British, American, French, Italian, and Japanese Governments, Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, is regarded as the logical choice of the American Government. Parliamentary gossip holds that the former Emperor certainly should not have a privileged position in court, but should be put in the dock like any other man charged with a crime.

The trial is looked for this Autumn, if it takes place, and steps for the ex-Kaiser's extradition are expected to be taken soon, if not already begun. Dutch newspapers have discussed his extradition ever since he took refuge in Holland. Their general sentiment seems to be that it would be a humiliation for Holland to surrender the former monarch at the demand of the Powers, which demand would be untenable under the law, since the Kaiser's case does not come under extradition treaties, and the charge of "a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties" is not covered by existing laws.

Hint Demand For Neutral Judges

The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant, in an article which is reputed to have been inspired, recently said that the Dutch Government might be prepared to make the necessary changes in its constitutional law on being given certain guarantees as to the constitution of the court and the character of the trial. The guarantees specified by the newspaper were that impartial judges who would not be of accusing nationalities would preside, and that the former Emperor might receive the right to produce all available evidence in his defense.

The Handelsblad of Amsterdam recently said, regarding the former Emperor and Crown Prince:

"Both of them have been admitted to this country as a matter of fact, not as a matter of right, for no authorisation to travel or reside in Holland has been issued to them in accordance with the law of 1849 relating to foreigners, nor are they interned as dangerous foreigners under the temporary law of 1898, which requires that a foreigner, to be interned, must be deemed dangerous to public order, safety, health, or morality."

The newspaper points out that foreigners not in possession of an authorisation to travel or reside in Holland may be put over the frontier from which they come.

100,000 VIENNA CHILDREN SAVED BY AMERICAN FOOD

Mary Heaton Vorse Pleads That More Help Be Sent To Starving Austrians

OFFICIAL RELIEF ENDING

Youngsters, Emaciated And 'Famine Yellow,' Grateful For American Assistance

New York, June 30.—An ancient Austrian palace, converted into an "American" soup kitchen, with a portrait of George Washington over the serving table, and 100,000 starving Viennese school children learning to salute the American flag—this is the picture brought back from Vienna yesterday by Mrs. Mary Heaton Vorse.

Mrs. Vorse made a special investigation of food conditions in Vienna at the request of Herbert Hoover and the Allied Food Commission.

"Hundreds of thousands of children in Central Europe will be 'American children' next year," she said, "we call them 'American children' because it is due to America that they will be alive at all in another year. No one can imagine the terrible appearance of those children.

"They have a peculiar color that comes from famine—'famine yellow' it is called. Thousands are misshapen because their food for the last five years has lacked the properties to nourish their bones, and all are undersized. Many have tubercular glands.

"The American Relief Administration has been feeding 100,000 children in Vienna alone, at a cost of $1,200,000. Our program will come to an end on August 15. After that it will rest with the people of America, especially the women, to say whether this work is to be continued, and the new generation given the equipment of health of which they have been robbed by the war. I don't believe that the women who rallied so magnificently to the call of the Red Cross, in every little town throughout the country, will allow the children of Europe to starve. The same organisation could be built up again to provide funds to continue the feeding of these children."

Mrs. Vorse said the food supply in Vienna was not sufficient to feed the population, and that although food cards are issued, by the government, food itself is lacking. The extremely rich people secured food through illicit buying in the country districts. One wealthy woman, she said, was spending 19,000 kronen ($4,800) a month to feed her family of nine. In the farming districts the peasants have learned to demand articles of value in barter, instead of accepting money for produce. Mrs. Vorse herself was charged two chairs for ten pounds of potatoes.

The American Relief Administration organised food kitchens with Austrian workers in the neighborhood of school buildings, and special arrangements were made to supply food to orphan asylums. One meal a day, consisting of cocoa, white bread, beans or peas and a sweet was supplied to the children. Those of high school age paid a small fee, but to the little children it was given free.

"One day I was in a restaurant and a flower vender came in with a basket of roses," she added. "She approached my table and saw a bit of ham rind I had left on my plate as unfit to eat. She came close, whispering, and asked if I intended to leave that bit. When I said that I did, she stretched out her hand and grabbed it. I never saw anything more terrible than that involuntary gesture of starvation.

"You cannot leave your shoes outside your door in the hotel at night, or they would be stolen. Once I was breakfasting in my room and left a tiny bit of black bread on my tray. The chambermaid saw it and asked me to give it to her.

"The people in the rural districts are better off and will, of course, be fairly well supplied as soon as the harvest is in. But Vienna is a dead city."
